UPLAND

The Upland segment of the Beretta collection is dedicated to wing shooting. These hunters can be found plodding through tall wet grass, through woods and brambles, and where weather conditions vary greatly as the seasons change, from shining sun, to rain, wind and bitter cold.

Beretta meets the needs of all these situations. The collection offers a wide range of versatile garments – lightweight, outerwear made of resilient, high-performance fabrics, the fit specially designed to ensure ease-of-movement and maximum comfort all the time.

The Upland collection reflects the true nature of the Beretta DNA; the perfect balance between innovation and tradition where Gore™ laminates are combined with wool and cotton. The fabric is made breathable by an innovative nano-tech treatment and waterproof by using the Beretta CARBONfluo waterproofing finish. The surface undergoes a light abrasive treatment to make the fabric softer. On the inside the garments are lined with Gore-Tex®, and have a CoolMax® Active lining making them perfectly waterproof and comfortable thanks to even temperature distribution. Designed to work in any hunting situation, the Seven X jacket and pants outfit sets new standards in comfort and freedom of movement.

STONE - KEVLAR ARMOR AS LIGHT AS AIR

There is no better example for the Beretta philosophy of blending traditional needs with innovative technology than this jacket and pants. Designed with remarkable ingenuity and astonishingly clever technology, the 'Stone' outfit is perfect for hiking through woods or any rough terrain. The thorn-proof properties of Cordura® are blended with cotton and Kevlar® fibers that pound for pound are five times stronger than steel. This unique blend creates an extremely protective fabric that is thin, soft, and quiet.

The jacket is made waterproof and breathable thanks to the CoolMax® Active lining and the Gore-Tex® liner, which is sandwiched between the lining and the outer fabric. Finally a layer of Beretta CARBONfluo waterproofing treatment is applied to the outside of the jacket. Designed to accommodate a BIS (Beretta Interactive System) vest or under-jacket, it's a truly versatile garment that protects against even extreme weather and "Easy Movement" rear gussets to ensure maximum freedom of movement. The jacket has right and left recoil pads with exclusive Beretta quilting, a corduroy collar, zipper flap, adjustable cuffs with Velcro strips. Napoleon pocket, large front pockets with double points of entry, drawstrings at bottom and rear, and waterproof game bag with double entry. Inside are detachable Beretta "Hands-free" straps, and two additional pockets with zippers.

The pants have scratchproof panels in the areas most subject to wear. They are breathable, dry quickly and have a comfortable fit thanks to the elastic waistband and preformed knees. Side pockets, two cargo pockets with flaps and a rear pocket with zipper complete the garment.

WOOL & POLAR – LOOKS LIKE KNIT BUT...

The perfect blend of tradition and innovation, the classic look and pleasant feel of a wool outer garment melds with microfleece technology on the inside. Thanks to the very fine weave of the microfibrils, body heat is not dissipated. A "cocoon" of warm air is created around the body ensuring the warmth needed to withstand bitter-cold weather. Light, warm, dry and breathable, this jacket is ideal for hunting on cold, dry days and is stylish enough to be worn before and after hunting.

DRY WAXED COTTON – “WAX” UPON A TIME...

Years ago wax was spread on jackets to aid in waterproofing. Today, thanks to Beretta's Dry Waxed technology, a very resilient, waterproof, breathable fabric has been created that completely absorbs the wax. No greasy feel or foul odors. Using an innovative treatment process, a single crystal paraffin wax finish is applied on dry (80% cotton, 20% nylon) fabric. This jacket is particularly lightweight and has a wealth of detail: hooded collar with rain peak, easy-breather cape back, temperature regulator pit zips for greater breathability, large top-and-side entry pockets with safety flaps, leather reinforcing trim, inner pocket and adjustable cuffs with leather trim. There is also a Dry Waxed shotgun case that closes American-style, a cartridge bag that can hold six boxes of ammo and a beautiful game bag with three pouches and leather belt.

WATERFOWLER

In few other hunting sports is the performance of the equipment as important as it is in waterfowl hunting. Damp and wind are inevitable, rain almost obligatory, ease of movement and a perfectly timed shot a must. Successful waterfowl hunters also need to wear camouflage to stay well hidden from these wild birds with their incredibly sharp vision. The Waterfowler line meets these needs with waterproof, camouflage garments with breathable Gore-Tex® linings.

XTREMA GEAR - EXTREME COMFORT THAT JUST DOESN'T SHOW

The name Xtrema reflects the great challenge Beretta took on when creating this line of clothing. Made with 625 den polyester Max4® camouflage fabric, coated with polyurethane, these garments have heat-welded seams and numerous high-tech features such as the double water run-off flaps to ensure that the garments are fully waterproof. Each garment is warm and durable but still allows for ease of movement. Jackets are available in short and long versions, with fleece collar lining and central wedge for added comfort, chest hand-warmer pockets with waterproof zipper with direct access to the waist drawstring, detachable hood and non-slip shoulder patches.

There are pockets with waterproof zippers on sleeves, temperature regulator pit zips, adjustable Velcro cuffs, generous front cartridge pockets with flap and magnetic snaps. The jackets also have drawstrings at bottom and rear gussets for added freedom of movement.

The line also includes pants, bibs, short Windstopper® jacket, shirt, gloves and a cap, all made of Camouflage Max4® fabric. Beretta also makes a complete line of waterproof Camouflage Max4® bags and cases. Each and every pocket on these bags has been carefully designed and positioned to make opening and accessing them as simple as possible, and these cases even float with a gun inside.

VINTAGE YEARS 1526

After five hundred years in business, the Beretta family is able to skillfully blend a respect for tradition and craftsmanship with modern tastes and styles. This is where the 'Vintage Years' & '1526' collections of garments and accessories draw their inspiration.

Classic garments that do not follow fashion, yet still manage to be fresh, and modern materials that respect the great tailoring traditions of the past, each of these jackets is derived from a search through the archives and then given a modern twist. Their very names evoke ancient origins: Musoduro, Kingsbridge, Saint Denis. Whether out hunting or in every-day life, wearing these garments imparts a sense of age-old values, timeless style, and an authentic love of the outdoors, values that Beretta still holds strong today.

ST. JAMES & 1526 – HUNTING IN CASHMERE

A complete line of jackets, vests and breeks for those who enjoy British-style hunting parties and want to dress in the traditional hunting style with exclusive fabrics and simple technical elements.

To the left, the St. James Coat, a wool/cashmere tweed coat with a Beretta BWB (Beretta Waterproof Breathable) lining that ensures it is both waterproof and breathable. It has a high, microfibre-lined collar, adjustable cuffs, hand-warmer pockets, generous front pockets with flaps, leather trim and internal elastic cartridge holder plus a large game bag. Inside this jacket you will find custom Beretta CoolMax® lining, detachable Beretta "Hands-free" shoulder straps and safety pockets. He also wears breeks with buckles under the knees. They are made of tweed that has been waterproofed with a BWB lining and heat-formed seams. For the head a classic cap, again in a wool/cashmere blend with waterproof, breathable BWB lining.

To the right an outfit from the 1526 line made of pure cashmere. The shooting coat is waterproof and has corduroy trim and leather inserts. It has chest hand-warmer and large front pockets with flaps and zipper or button closure, hooks to attach gloves, adjustable cuffs and a gusseted back.

BUTTERO VEST

The Duca Visconti di Modrone corduroy vest, is inspired by the clothes of the Butteri – the authentic Italian cowboys still working today in the Maremma region – it draws from their wealth of traditions and strong culture. The vest is distinguished by the unusual shape of the front pockets and the “Maremanna” hand-warmer pockets. Warm and comfortable thanks to the Supplex® lining, it also has a large button-closed game bag on the back.

GROUSE FIELD VEST

The 12th of August, the “glorious twelve”, is the day anxiously awaited by hunters throughout the United Kingdom. This is the day the season opens for hunting grouse (lagopide scotium), one of the oldest birds on earth. It is hunted in the famous highlands of Scotland and, in the evening, the hunters gather to dine on the birds and tell stories of the days hunt. Upon a request from our colleagues at the Beretta Gallery in London the Grouse Field Vest was created to honor this glorious tradition. It is made of Duca Visconti di Modrone moleskin with a Supplex® lining, Alcantara recoil pads and ample pockets on the front.

*"We go
man and dog
together through the green morning, the rousing empty solitude
where only we exist...
and the age-old friendship, the joy of being man and dog converted into a single animal walking along moving six legs and a tail splashed with dew."*

Pablo Neruda

To the wonderful hunting dogs in this catalogue and their breeders, we say thank-you. The dogs incredible ability to work, their enthusiasm and "will to please" was a joy to behold for our entire crew. But above all, they have enabled all of us hunters and laymen alike to live and experience the magic bond that exists between man, dog and nature, a bond that comes to its peak in the hunt.

MAREMMANE AND CORBARA – RENEWING TRADITIONS

Hunting of the past has a symbolic image: the Maremma. Faded photographs of Puccini wearing high leather boots as he emerges from the Migliarino have fixed the image of an epoch on paper. Beretta breathes renewed life into these pictures, reinterpreting them. And this process starts with the maremmana, a jacket that embodies Italian hunting style. It comes in three versions this year, all with chest hand-warmer pockets and the typical front pocket with buttons and the rounded line that follows through to the large fully lined game bag at the back.

On the left, in Duca Visconti di Modrone moleskin with soft, lightweight, warm Thermore Ecopiuma® padding. It comes in five colors and has a detachable Beretta "Hands-free" shoulder strap and the unmistakable bi-swing back zipper. In the background at centre, is the new Maremmana WVP, a blend of wool and Gore™ technology. Available in wool check or Loden green with leather trim, this jacket is warm, waterproof and breathable thanks to the Gore-Tex® liner and Thermore Ecopiuma® padding. In the foreground at centre, is the women's version, in Duca Visconti di Modrone moleskin, it has a fitted waist, CoolMax® internal lining and removable Beretta "Hands-free" shoulder strap. On the right we find the Corbara jacket inspired by a garment worn by Count Bonzi in a photograph from the early 1900s, during a hunting foray. Made of corduroy with Supplex® lining, it has a knit collar; generous front pockets, hand-warmer pockets and a large game bag.

The entire line comes in green or beige and includes: three cases, shotgun and rifle slings, cartridge bags with four, six and eight box capacity, cartridge belts with 26 loops for 12 and 20 gauge cartridges, belt cartridge pouches, sac de bateau, briefcase, wheeled carry-on and wheeled suitcase.

BERETTA RUBBER BOOTS

Beretta offers a wide range of stylish natural rubber boots. With double density, non-slip soles that increase lateral stability and improve grip, these boots also incorporate a special heel system that absorbs impacts, thus reducing fatigue. The design of the forefoot and heel protects the foot from bumps and uneven terrain. The models differ in type of lining and how they close.

Lario: cotton/poly lining, full boot leg, absorbs moisture produced by the foot and reduces rubbing.

Verbano: cotton/poly lining, full boot leg, an "all terrain" boot.

Braies: neoprene lining, Beretta exclusive Snap-fastening buckle at the calf, intended for the winter months.

Benaco: soft full-grain leather lining, full length zipper to make them easy to slip on, snap-fastening buckle. Maximum comfort and breathability for the foot.

KINGSBRIDGE – WHEN THE AIR IS BITING

The village of Ken Follet's imagination and also an important centre of commerce in the past, Kingsbridge lies in the south of England facing out on the ocean. Here English gentlemen would go hunting wearing garments to protect them from the biting winds blowing in off the Atlantic. This new tweed jacket takes its inspiration from the jackets they once wore. Warm and comfortable, in perfect English style, it has a padded Thermore® lining, high knit-lined collar and leather throat latch, four pockets with flaps, a safety pocket on the outside and two on the inside. Beretta "Hands-free" shoulder straps and a gusseted back complete the jacket.

SAINT DENIS AND WOMEN'S STRETCH CORDUROY

This men's jacket originated in the outskirts of Paris and was worn by French gamekeepers in the late 1800s as they served the territory surrounding the Saint Denis Abbey. It stands out for the elegant design of the quilted recoil pads that extend down into the hand-warmer pockets and continue on to the front gusset pockets. Made of Duca Visconti di Modrone moleskin these jackets are padded with Thermore® and have a CoolMax® lining. For the woman who loves nature and the world of hunting, Beretta offers garments with a special fit like this stretch corduroy outfit. The 3-button jacket has four pockets and leather trim.

Adding the BIS vest, which comes with the jacket, provides extra warmth when needed. For the woman, we have a wool/cashmere blend jacket with fitted waist and four pockets. DAMASK STEEL KNIVES 1526

Through collaboration with the designer and master cutler Francesco Pachi, Beretta is proud to offer this limited edition pair of damask steel knives. This pair of hunting knives, is entirely hand-made of damask steel and prized briar root. A drop point line, a fixed blade and a "lockback" folding blade with semi-concave razor-like grinding and removable bolsters, again in damask stainless steel, characterize them. The exclusive design, the superb materials and the attention to details make these truly a one-of-a-kind luxury item. Damask steel is produced using several layers of steel, each with different carbon content. Hammering and folding of the initial bar creates a bar with thousands of layers and it is this bar that is then forged into the blade. Each set is a unique work of art, the pattern formed by the unique warp of the steel being clearly visible. The most demanding collectors can match these prestigious items with their SO10 shotgun, replicating on the knives the incisions made on their shotgun cases.

PREMIUM CASE AND CLEANING KIT

To preserve and maintain fine shotguns, Beretta offers a series of leather cases with velvet lining made by expert leather craftsmen. In this image we see case for an O/U shotgun with 76 cm barrel plus a pair of extra barrels. This case comes with a cleaning kit that includes: two oil jars, one pair of snap caps, three screwdrivers with rosewood handles and rosewood cleaning rods with three brushes. It comes in two versions, for cal. 12 or cal. 20.

BERETTA SHIRTS

Each year the Beretta hunter can choose from a wide range of shirts. This year there are eleven styles in more than 40 colors, from solids to camouflage, covering the whole range of plaids and checks. The best pure cotton yarns are used to create cool, traditional poplin, oxford and flannel shirts. Those who want something practical will choose our wash & wear cotton, those wanting protection and scratch resistance will choose the canvas with flannel lining. And finally, for days that are bitter cold, we have shirts made of Swisspile® E2 and Microfleece (120 gram weight), able to create a cushion of air around the body to insulate it from the cold and help maintain body warmth.

PP-TECHWOOL HUNTING SWEATER

In another example of the perfect melding of tradition and innovation, wool meets Dryarn® and a very attractive, durable sweater is born. A special double needle-bar process couples the outside wool shell with the exceptional heat regulation and breathability of polypropylene. It keeps the body warm and dry during long marches and when hide hunting. The garment dries quickly, holds its shape and does not shrink.

MUSODURO

"There's a subtle connection between the man of the woods and nature, a fine line along which intuition, energy, wisdom and passion run." So said Musoduro, a hunter and outlaw of the 1930s, who was made famous in a novel by Luigi Ugolini, and again in 1954 when the novel was made into a film directed by Bennati. Beretta looks anew at his jacket, worn by the model on the left. Made of Duca Visconti di Modrone moleskin with detachable internal lining, this garment has leather buttons and trim, chest pocket and two ample gusset pockets at the front, a game bag at the back and the removable Beretta "Hands-free" shoulder straps. The classic-cut pants are made of the same fabric.

CIMA 12

In the Veneto region of northern Italy we find the Altipiano dei Sette Comuni, an area where nobles usually went hunting in the late 1800s. The jacket in the picture to the right is inspired by the hunting estates of the Aristocracy and takes its name from the 2300 meter-high peak so named because it casts a shadow over the underlying towns at noon. Made of cotton with a Beretta check lining, it has a detachable, padded chemisette, corduroy collar and cuffs, safety pockets and detachable Beretta "Hands-free" shoulder straps. The jacket has a simple charm with the unusual line of the front pockets with asymmetrical flaps.

The pictures in this catalogue were taken at "La Stoppa", a splendid hunting retreat in Val Trebbiola, a little over an hour's drive from Milan. Lead by the untiring team of Montefeltro, we saw grey partridges, pheasants, red partridges, hare, ducks and even two deer and one boar. We thank all those who helped create this catalogue: Toni and his colleagues, Marina, Piero, Gianni and Samuele, for their incredible helpfulness and for having posed for this catalogue.

Elena Pantaleoni for having welcomed us to the family vineyard and Carla, an impeccable guest who turns out exquisite apple cakes.

Thanks, above all to Aldo, Cinzia, Claudio, Federica, Nicola, Roberta, Piernicola, Silvia, Simone and Stefano, real hunters who enthusiastically agreed to model for this catalogue.
